Tanzania's first leader, Nyerere: The Early Years adds complexity to a story often told more as a hagiography. A senior lecturer in African Studies at Nyerere's alma mater, Thomas Molony draws on both previously-known archival sources from Nyerere's early days in Tanganyika and many new ones from Nyerere's time as a student

Book Review – Nyerere: The Early Years by Thomas Molony
Julius Kambarage Nyerere (1922-1999), the first President of Tanzania, was a man whose political life was uniquely and inextricably bound into the history of the nation he created. Yet, though 'Baba wa Taifa', Father of the Nation, there is still no adequate biography. This book presents the first truly rounded portrait of Nyerere's early life, from his birth in 1922 until his graduation from ...

Review Nyerere The Early Years By Thomas Molony
Julius Kambarage Nyerere was to travel far from home during his early life. This was unusual for most young men born in Tanganyika Territory. But if at one level Nyerere was an unusual young man – thanks largely to the privileges that came with his father's chiefly status – then at another level his early life was fairly ordinary.

Book Review Nyerere The Early Years By Thomas Molony
This book presents the first truly rounded portrait of Nyerere's early life, from his birth in 1922 until his graduation from Edinburgh in 1952, helping us to see his later political achievements in a new light. It was after returning to Tanganyika that 'Mwalimu' (the teacher) formally entered politics, and led efforts to deliver Tanganyika to independence. Drawing on interviews with his ...

Book Review: Julius Nyerere by Paul Bjerk In a short and precise volume, Paul Bjerk succeeds in debating the legacy of Nyerere in six short chapters. The book deals with the highs and lows of Nyerere's illustrious political career and balances this in a manner befitting a great African statesman, says Nicodemus Minde. Paul Bjerk has taken keen interest in the study of Tanzania's ...

The book surrounds pivotal events: youth in privileged Westmount, distinction at McGill Law School, rejection of law school and family business, unlikely turn toward music, dislike of academia, writing in London and Greece, and initial fame. The first volume (of three) ends in 1970, wondering whether Cohen can honour the "essential truths" of "Suzanne," singing it night after night on ...

All this book does is list the standards and say you have to do exactly what the standards ask. Deeply disappointed. Here's an example,"Standard 4.3: Promote a love of learning and stimulate children's intellectual curiosity in partnership with parents/careers." The author helpfully explains in the next sentence that Standard 4.3 asks you to evidence how you promote a love of learning and ...
