Motivation and Personality
(book) - Wikipedia

Motivation and Personality by Abraham H. Maslow is one of his major works. It was first published in 1954 and it has become a classic, most known for Maslow's outline of the hierarchical pyramid of human needs, which became a mainstay in the understanding of human nature and psychology. At the time it was published it created a revolution in the way the western world

Theory Explained. Abraham Maslow earned a doctorate in psychology from the University of Wisconsin in 1934. In the early days of his career, he worked with monkeys and noted that they tended to fulfill their needs in specific order of importance. As he observed how those monkeys met their personal needs, Maslow recognized that humans acted in a similar way.

Maslow's Hierarchy of Needs

| Simply Psychology

Psychologist Abraham Maslow first developed his famous theory of individual development and motivation in the 1940's. He suggested that human beings have a hierarchy of needs. That is, that all humans act in a way which will address basic needs, before moving on to satisfy other, so-called higher level needs.
