A sports writing job would have been the perfect catch for Jordan McAllister, but in Rancho, Texas, all she could reel in was the food column. Though she may not know her way around a kitchen, she has no trouble finding herself in a kettle of fish... Tempted by the offer of a free Caribbean cruise, Jordan accepts a spot as a judge in a week-long big-time cooking competition aboard the Carnation Queen. She just better hope no one finds out that her famous palate is far from refined. But there are bigger fish to fry when arrogant chef Stefano Mancini falls face first into his signature halibut dish during the first event. While evidence suggests that the handsome Italian chef's death was an accident, Jordan thinks otherwise. But she'll have to keep her wits about her--and the sea sickness pills handy--if she's going to solve this one...

Jordan McAllister can't cook her way out of a macaroni & cheese box, but filling in for the culinary reporter at The Rancho Globe is better than writing personal ads. Her first assignment to review the new steakhouse in town is a disaster that ends with her waiter murdered outside her door--with her name and number in his pocket. Now Jordan is the prime suspect, as well as the main course on the murder menu.

Rayne McCloud is a 32-year-old art expert with an impeccable reputation. However, her latest Sydney-based project, a vision of reconciliation between two cultures, attracts the ire of a young skinhead and her work is completely ruined. Traumatized by the incident, she loses her sight in one eye. Several failed attempts to re-attach her retina leave her feeling hopeless and dejected, so she decides to return home to Alaska, to learn to live again. In her childhood holiday home on Halibut Cove, Rayne witnesses the murder of the second mate of the Petro Valdez, just as the world commemorates the third anniversary of one of its most severe environmental catastrophes. When Rayne identifies the killer as eco-friendly real estate magnate, Liam Declan, her otherwise unusually detailed eyewitness account is dismissed outright by the police and the case makes headlines. Bent on saving her compromised reputation, Rayne's investigation leads her to the discovery of Alaska's richest goldmines on the very same shoreline wrecked by the notorious oil spill. The elaborate cover up includes not only state officials, the former crew of the Petro Valdez, oil barons and mining tycoons, but unwittingly, her very own father. Brought face to face with the harsh realities of the corporate world, will Rayne trade the love of her father for her thirst for the truth?

It's December 1991 in Larynx. The villagers are preparing for Christmas when their festivities are marred by a couple of suspicious deaths. This light-hearted murder mystery follows the antics of the acidic Ralph Parmesan, wealthy Christine Ribcage, romantic Leonard Mantlepiece and a whole bunch of other twenty-somethings through intense spates of beer consumption, rage, jealousy, passion and tomfoolery. The Sockwith Police, masterminded by DI Brian Fluids, are somewhat less than competent. So when a second death occurs - a hideous death by cheese - the team stumbles into action. But do they have the ability to track down the killer?

Exactly how hot is the competition at the annual coffee trade industry conference in Milwaukee? Scaldingly hot. What's not hot? Finding Marvin LaRoche, owner of the HotWired coffeehouse chain store stone-cold dead under a banquet table in the middle of the convention. And everybody knows that Maggy was no great fan of Mr. LaRoche, nor of his overly competitive business practices - so it's up to Maggy's own amateur sleuthing skills to get herself out of the hotseat! Mrs. LaRoche, newly widowed, certainly seems a bit too cheery. But then there's the angry activist who denounced LaRoche's practice of exploiting Third World coffee growers. As the conference coordinator and the number one suspect, Maggy is on a countdown to find the murderer, save her coffeehouse and maybe, just maybe heat up her love life... Thank goodness for caffeine!!

years my wife and I had dreamt of fishing in Alaska Sure we had done a lot of fishing and hunting down south but there was a burning desire to risk life and limb to catch or hunt something that might just end up having us for lunch instead! Every year for five years we went to the Denver Sportsman's show and lusted after those mighty salmon and halibut, finally we decided that enough was enough. We were going to do it! But if we were going to do it we might as well do it right. We decided, "Yeah we could spend $5000.00 on a two week fishing trip or we could spend the same amount and just move there!" Here we are! This book contains the tales of our adventures in the Great Sometimes we catch fish and sometimes it really is about the experience. And sometimes it just gets stupid and that is when we love it the most! So kick back and enjoy! And remember our motto: The family that slays together stays together! J. Kevin Curry

Jordan, who is now the permanent food writer for her newspaper, goes on an assignment to a cattle baron's charity ball with one of his cowboys, Rusty Morales, but when her date dies during the event, she feels compelled to find his killer.

Charlie finally feels like she's got a bit of breathing room. She's flush with cash, she and Zoe are moving into a snazzy new apartment, and she's riding the wave of having solved a murder a few weeks earlier. But when a local woman is murdered and her family hires Charlie to find the killer, she finds herself embroiled in yet another investigation. However, what Charlie initially thinks might be an easy solve quickly finds her mired in Maui's seedy underworld, with a victim who led a double life. Finding herself dealing with a suspect list longer than a CVS receipt, Charlie enlists the help of Dot and Rosie to narrow down that list and get a lead on the real killer. But between Jake trying to keep her out of the investigation, new neighbors who make Ozzy Osbourne look normal, and an attempted robbery at her day job, Charlie quickly finds she's got her hands full once again. And to make matters worse, as Charlie gets closer to solving the crime, she realizes the killer has another target in mind: her. Can Charlie bring another killer to justice before she's turned into shark bait?

Why do they call Adelaide, Australia the "City of Corpses"? How many people did Agatha Christie kill with her pen? What was Jack the Ripper's supposed occupation? There's nothing like a little murder to challenge the dark side of your brain. This dastardly little volume is organized by the seven deadly sins, giving you all the gumshoes, guns, and gore you need to explore the sinister side of human nature, including: The worst villains of all time—from Hannibal Lecter to Charles Manson The bloody truth about forensics Weaponry to die for Private dicks, dangerous dames, and dubious characters The most puzzling unsolved mysteries Who's really gotten away with murder From amateur sleuths to serial killers, this murderous miscellany of crime—both real and imagined—is just the thing for a dark and stormy night.

Six famous (or infamous, if you prefer) World War Two generals have been murdered in six different countries leading to separate quiet but intense investigations. INTERPOL is finally involved because the police in each country come to realize that there has to be a connection, but no one knows what that connection is. Once links seem plausible, the Mossad joins the international police investigation and search; and the greatest manhunt in history is launched spreading over four continents and delving into secrets best left undisturbed.
